

una Scelta di Gusto

In 2004, we celebrated our first 30 years of service. Thirty years of work and passion in making pasta by hand, the old fashioned traditional way passed on through the ages. Our goal is to preserve a tradition, the pleasure of making a product using simple ingredients: water and durum wheat semolina. A tradition imposed on us by the ancient Neapolitan pasta makers, and that we are proud to represent today. We only exclusively use traditional bronze dies. Like the master pasta makers at the beginning of the 900th century, we work slowly and with the same patience they had when letting their pasta dry in open air streets. Like them, we respect our pasta and know how to wait the right amount of time for the drying process to complete – which could take up to 2 days for some forms of pasta. Making pasta is a family tradition.
